FOOTBALL SPECIAL

Hawaii's Raika Curman, left, and Travis Laboy put a stop to this run by Nevada's Chance Kretschmer.

UH: Elements, Wolf Pack combine to sink Warriors

"My mechanics are fine," Aiyai said. "I pushed that right. Maybe it was a little tight. But I hit the locks well. I had good height and distance."
These concerns, more than anything, set the way for the Wolf Pack to score 11 unanswered points and for the Warriors' comeback attempt to falter.
"Who knew we were in the game," Nevada defensive end Jorge Cordova said. "We had to keep at it."
